

ANTI-TOXINE AS A REMEDY.

PHYSICIANS DIFFER AS TO ITS VALUE AS A DIPHTHERIA CURE.

All Doctors Do Not Admit That It Is Efficacious, but the Majority Do—Preponderance of Proof in Favor of the Remedy—Health Officer Wright's Opinion.

Anti-toxine, the new remedy for diphtheria, is the cause of a difference of opinion among the local physicians regarding its efficacy. The majority of physicians are, however, highly in favor of the new remedy, and say that it has done all that has been claimed for it. On the other hand some few of the physicians are of the opinion that it is not the boon it has been represented to be.

Several of the members of the local medical fraternity have but little faith in the virtue of the serum introduced, while others entertain the opinion that it is undoubtedly a great discovery and the best remedy for the disease that has yet been discovered. Physicians who do not believe in the new remedy declare that anti-toxine brings to a patient under its treatment acute nephritis and that the use of anti-toxine is fast being abandoned in Germany, where it was first introduced.

They also point to a statement by Prof. Hausmann of Berlin, a non-believer in anti-toxine, who declares that from a record of over 200 cases of diphtheria, which he has carefully observed, treated with anti-toxine, a mortality of 1 per cent. greater than that under the administration of old remedies resulted. The general opinion among local physicians, however, is that anti-toxine reduces the death rate in diphtheria, if administered in time. In almost every case where the remedy has been administered in this city it has been perfectly satisfactory, and the most successful results have been secured. Statistics demonstrate that taken altogether there is a preponderance of proof on the side of the new remedy.

Dr. Kinyon, one of the best physicians in the country and the physician in charge of the New York Marine hospital, who was sent by the United States government to Germany to investigate the matter, declares in his report to the authorities that the mortality in diphtheria in Berlin has been reduced from 70 to 25 per cent. by the use of anti-toxine and cordially recommends its use in the first stages of diphtheria.

Health Officer Wright is a firm believer in the efficacy of the new remedy, and the members of the local board of health have instructed him to procure it and use it in cases of diphtheria which may come under his notice. He has administered the remedy in several cases and the results have been in almost every instance highly successful. He is of the opinion that the remedy is by long odds the most efficacious that has yet been discovered for the treatment of diphtheria and that the death rate in this city and vicinity in diphtheria cases has been reduced by the use of the serum. Fortunately the city has been remarkably free from cases of diphtheria during the present season.

RAILROAD OFFICERS RELEASED.

A Private Car to Take Supt. Sanborn and Detective Bailey From Plymouth Jail. A Boston dispatch says: Division Superintendent John C. Sanborn and Detective Christopher Bailey of the Plymouth division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad were Saturday morning released from the Plymouth county jail, where they have been serving a four months' sentence for the part they took in the Abington riot last summer. Their sentence did not expire until the 10th, but they were released Saturday morning on account of good behavior.

A few days ago it became known that President Clark and other officials of the road proposed to celebrate the event. Last night the president's private car and a sleeper were switched on to the Plymouth division tracks, and a party of railroad officers started for Plymouth, arriving at the jail soon after 1 o'clock Saturday morning. As arrangements had been made beforehand, Superintendent Sanborn and Detective Bailey were soon taken on the car, and returned to Boston, arriving early Saturday morning. The party was met at the station by a number of railroad officers, who escorted the released prisoners to the Thorndike hotel for breakfast.

Electric Corporation Schemed.

A resolution has passed the lower house of the state legislature, without apparently attracting any local attention, by which the New Haven Electric Light company is given power to extend into adjacent towns and the right to establish electric light, heat, and power properties in the control of railroads in this city and neighborhood. The company, which has a present capital of $400,000, is allowed under the bill to increase to $2,000,000 and issue bonds to half that amount. The measure forecasts an attempt to merge all the local electric corporations under the control of the Electric Light company.

ELECTRICITY IN ROADBED.

New Haven Horses' Experience When Passing Over the Spot.

A leak in the electrical circuit at the corner of Broadway and York street Saturday charged the roadway with electricity and a number of horses were severely shocked.

One horse belonging to C. W. Blakeslee jumped into the air several times as he passed over the spot charged with the electric fluid and acted so strangely that a blacksmith was sought to examine its shoes. They were removed and put on again, but when the horse was again driven over the spot it acted in the same manner.

A big crowd collected and watched the various antics of horses as they felt the effects of the electricity. A man ventured in the roadway and received a shock, and several dogs were also the victims. Electricians discovered that a circuit was formed from the overhead wires to the underground wires.

WALLINGFORD.

The Wallingford Ice company will this week send out its annual scale of prices to its customers and they will be given a pleasant surprise, as the prices for the coming season are way down, lower than was ever known here or in fact in any other town or city. The prices are as follows: Families, 25 cents per hundred; saloons, grocers, etc., 20 cents; and markets, 15 cents. There are two reasons why the prices are placed at such a low figure. One is that the cost of harvesting the crop was less this year than in any preceding year, and another and more important one is that there is a new ice dealer to be in the field the coming season. Oliver Hill of North Farms has built and stocked up an ice house and has been about town soliciting trade from many of the families that have been supplied for years past by the ice company and offering to supply the same for 20 cents a hundred, which is 10 cents a hundred under the regular price. The ice company does not propose to be undersold by any new man in the business and in consequence has put its prices down to 25 cents per hundred. Charles S. Hall will, as he has for the past two years, also dispense ice about the borough and of course will have to come down to the new schedule of prices, and the result will be that the residents of the borough will reap the benefit of the competition and may be assured of cheap prices for ice the coming season. If the other dealers come down on their prices the ice company will go still lower down.

Conroy and Fox, who appear in the opera house this evening in "Hot Tameless" need no introduction to the amusement public. Their song, "O, Mrs. O'Flaherty," has made them famous. Miss Alice Gilmore, America's great favorite actress, singer and dancer, will appear as Molly Kelly, an Irish lass just landed. The Allen sisters, Josie LaFontaine, Harry Fairbanks, and others stars.

Charles Hall has utilized the old family mansion on Quinlan street as an ice house, and stored the cellar and first floor full to the ceiling with a crop of ice for the coming season. The strangest part of the case is that a family is now living on the second floor with several hundred tons of ice under them all through the winter.

A flock of eleven large sea gulls and six wild ducks were seen flying over the lake headed for the salt water on Saturday.

Today is quarterly pension day, and Town Clerk Martin will be at his office long before daylight ready to fill out all pension papers presented.

OBITUARY.

Death of Charles W. Wilson.

The large circle of friends are called to mourn in the death of Charles W. Wilson, of the firm of Wilson & Harmon, the Chapel street furnishing dealers. He died on Saturday afternoon at his residence on Howard avenue. Mr. Wilson had been ill about five weeks, and his death is attributed to quick consumption. Mr. Wilson was the son of Charles J. Wilson, who died about three years ago. His mother still survives him, as does also a wife and two children. He was thirty-two years of age.

Mr. Wilson first began his business career with Veitch, the florist, and after working in this line of business for some time he became an employee of the dry goods firm of Wilcox & Hall. He subsequently became connected with the store of F. M. Brown & Co., and left that firm to go into business for himself in 1886, with Frank W. Harmon and William C. Harmon, sons of General Harmon, under the firm name of Wilson & Harmon, dealers in gent's furnishing goods, in which business he continued up to the time of his death.

DEATH OF THOMAS BAILEY.

Thomas Bailey, aged sixty, a veteran of the civil war, and a prominent Grand Army man, died at his residence at Mt. Carmel Saturday morning. He contracted St. Vitus' dance during the war, and had always since been afflicted with that disease. A short time ago he caught cold, which later changed to grip, and then developed into pneumonia, from which he died. He leaves a wife and two children. The interment will be in Hamden Plain cemetery.

PRISON DIRECTOR CHITTENDEN DEAD.

Madison, March 3.—John N. Chittenden, a member of the board of state prison directors, who had been ill from bronchial pneumonia for several days, died early yesterday. The funeral will be held this afternoon. He was first taken with grip, and this developed into pneumonia. Bright's disease also set in, together with some heart trouble. The deceased was sixty-eight years of age, leaves a widow, one son and two daughters.

Mr. Chittenden was one of the most widely known residents of this section of New Haven county. He was a native of Madison, and had lived here nearly all his life, and had been engaged in farming until within a few years. He had held numerous public offices, including that of first selectman for sixteen years, and represented this town in the general assembly in 1875 and 1877 as a republican. He had several years been president of the Madison Mutual Life Insurance company, a local company, with only a small business confined to Madison and adjacent places. In 1893 he was appointed by Governor Morris on the board of directors of the state prison, his term expiring in July next. Mr. Chittenden's son-in-law, Edward Field, is head bookkeeper for F. M. Brown & Co., of New Haven.

DEATH OF JUSTIN BRADLEY.

Justin Bradley, a well known and esteemed old citizen of East Haven, died yesterday. Mr. Bradley was taken with the grip about three weeks ago, which afterwards developed into pneumonia. Mr. Bradley was, it is said, the richest farmer in East Haven. Years ago he represented the town in the legislature.

THE REV. ELIAS B. HILLIARD.

The Rev. Elias Brewster Hilliard, for many years prominent in Congregational circles in Connecticut, died at Farmington Friday, March 1. He was a lineal descendant of Elder Brewster of the Plymouth colony, and was born in Boston in 1825, where his father, a shipmaster, resided. Mr. Hilliard was prepared for college at the Bacon academy in Colchester and was graduated at Yale in the class of 1848. After his graduation he was for two years principal of Lewis academy in Southington. Completing his theological studies at the Yale and Andover seminaries, Mr. Hilliard offered himself for the home missionary service, but finally located as pastor of the church at Hadlyme, remaining from 1855 to 1860. His other pastorates were Kensington, 1860 to 1867; South Glastonbury, 1867 to 1869; Plymouth, 1869 to 1889, and Conway, Mass., 1889 to 1893. From the beginning of his ministry, but notably in the twenty years of his Plymouth pastorate, he was a recognized leader in the enterprise of temperance reform. His wife, who was Miss Julia Whittier of Cleveland, O., survives him, with seven children, Mrs. Andrew McLeish of Chicago, Frederick W. of Staten Island, Mrs. J. L. Fenn of Hartford, Mary R. of St. Margaret's school, Waterbury; Helen, Fanny and John.

FUNERAL OF DR. HOADLEY.

The funeral services of Dr. Frederic H. Hoadley, who died in Florida February 25, were held at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Augustus H. Kimberly, on Whitney avenue, on Saturday afternoon. The bearers were Thomas Hooker, Eli Whitney Jr., Professor E. S. Dana, Dr. Foster and Dr. Gilbert. Professor Stevens conducted the services. The burial was in the old cemetery on Grove street.

IN MILFORD.

The funeral of Mrs. William F. Platt was held at the residence of Deacon George F. Platt, on Derby avenue, on Friday afternoon. The services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Morse of the First church, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Upson of Plymouth church, and were of a character befitting the close of a young life of Christian usefulness. Beautiful flowers were gathered in memory of the departed, and the tender tribute of holy words, sacred music and earnest prayers were performed as the last and tribute to a good woman. The bearers were Charles F. Beardsley, Sherman H. Baldwin, Walter Smith, Charles Beardsley of Springfield, Mass., Frank Platt, cousins of the deceased, and Herbert Clark, and the remains were followed to the grave in the Milford cemetery by a long cortege of carriages (57), where they were laid at rest.
